HILDRETH IS IN HIS STRIDE

LEADING AMERICAN OWNER OF 1909 TAKES HALF OF AQUEDUCT CARD.

Restigouche Wins Paumonok Handicap in Manne Suggesting That He Will Be a Formidable Factor in Season's Big Races.

New York, May 4.—S. C. Hildreth's colors were conspicuous at Aqueduct today, horses from his stable accounting for half the card. Jockey Shilling had the leg up on Fayette and Restigouche, two of them, while the other, Eddie Dugan, was ridden by G. Garner. The performance of Restigouche was a remarkable one for a first out and suggests that he will be a dangerous contender in the many stakes for which he is eligible. He took up 120 pounds and, forcing all the pace in the Paumonok Handicap, ran three-quarters in 1:12 to beat Besom a head. It was a two-horse race all the way. The Hildreth sprinter was a tired horse at the finish, but that was to be expected for a first start and the race will doubtiess do tim good. He is eligible for the Metropolitan and ought to be ready to go a mile by May 13, the opening day of the Belmont Park meeting.

1906 Not run this year.

Fayette in a measure redeemed his Excelsior Handicap failure when he easily disposed of Ardri. Norbitt and Zienap. Fayette was off very badly and easily ran around Ardri when called on. Eddie Dugan, the other Hildreth winner, took his purse by racing Frank Purcell into submission to the head of the stretch. It was another two-horse race, for the others at no time cut any figure.

R. F. Carman's White Wool easily disposed of Golden, the favorite, in the opening dash and the other iwo-year-old race went to an outsider when Doncaster finished first in a hard drive with Sheriff Bradley and Eastern Star. In this race Rake, a Keene starter, was the public choice, but never was prominent in the running and finished fifth.

Jockey Shilling, who was discharged in the Coney Island Police Court when brought to trial Monday for stabbing his former employer, R. L. Thomas, obtained his liberty on the plea of seif-defense. A crowd of Shilling's friends were in the court room and cheered when the magistrate announced his decision. The magistrate rebuked them. Shilling had several witnesses in court, as did Mr. Thomas. Shilling's own story was that he was eating an apple while talking with Mr. Thomas and had the knife in his hand. Mr. Thomas, he said, struck him, breaking his nose, and in the heat of the moment the stabbed his employer. Mr. Thomas admitted that he had slapped the Jockey, but said he did so after Shilling called him a liar.

MASTER JOHN'S CAREER AT AN END.

David Dunlop's Crack Colt Falls While at Pimlic Barrier as Favorite and Breaks His Neck.

Paltimore, Md., May 4.—There was enough excitement crowded into the sport at Pimlico this afternoon to satisfy the most exacting. The real sensation of the day was furnished in the Pimlico Nursery Stakes, when the heavily backed favorite, David Dunlop's Master John, reared up while at the post and, falling over backward, broke his back, it all happened so quickly that few realized the seriousness of the occurrence. Even the starter remained on his stand expecting the colt to scramble to his feet. When he failed to stir a crowd gathered and, on examination, it was found that the colt had broken his spinal column. He was then decred and, on examination, it was found that the colt tad broken his spinal column. He was then destroyed. Master John was a high-class two-year-old and was valued by his owner at $10,000. Mr. Dunlop refused an offer of $7,600 for the youngster only a few days ago., The race resulted in an easy victory for Stinger, which came from the rear in the stretch and finished with a great rush. Stinger is a Castleton-bred celt, by Voter—Mosquito, and is owned by C. C. Smithson of Washington.

Planuless and Ethon scored as favorites. The latter picked up 123 pounds in the closing dash and won in easy fashion.

Prima Lucie, by Peep o'Day—Rosy Dimple, said to be the best juvenile in the Chelsea Stable string, died this morning of lockjaw.

James McLaughlin announced that jockey Joe Not ter would come here to ride his colt, Fauntleroy, in the Preakness Stakes on Saturday.

H. R. Reiss, a local man, purchased the two-year-old Sir Chilton of Mrs. R. W. Walden this morning. James McLaughlin will train the colt in future. Mr. Reiss is also negotiating for Selwik and probably will become his owner.

Trainer John W. Pangle has arranged to ship the Dunlop horses to the farm at Petersburg, Va., at the conclusion of the Pinilico meeting.

A. B. Dade has received word from the Hamilton Jockey Club and also from George M. Hendrie of his appointment as starter at Hamilton and Windsor. "Honest" John Kelley and Tom Shaw came over from New York this morning to witness the racing Jockey Dave Nicol suffered a hemorrhage while in the Turkish baths this morning and was unable to OAKLAND OFFICIALS TAKE ACTION.

San Francisco, Cal., May 4.—Jockey A. Williams landed three winners at Oakland today, but will go into retirement for a time, as he was suspended for generally unsatisfactory riding, with special reference to his handling of J. R. Laughrey in the fifth race yestorday. The entries of F. E. Baird have been ordered refused, pending further investigation as to the causes for the scratching of Don Enrique out of the same race. In the race in question, Aks-Ar-Ben was backed for a good thing, but he stumbled at the start and the attempted coup was spoiled. It is intimated that Don Enrique was withdrawn for a consideration to make it easier for him. J. R. Laughrey ran below his true form.

Fern L. won the feature race today after beating the barrier. She was in front all the way. Inciment, a 30 to 1 chance, closed fast and was second, with Faneuil Hall next. Mentry handled Goldfun, the favorite, badly and she made a poor showing.

Gene Russell proved a surprise in the first race. Aftermath closed with a rush and beat Marburg and Round and Round in a drive.

Cantem. plunged on in the final race, was beaten by Ormonde Cunnfigham in the last stride.

F. E. Baird, whose entries were ordered refused, brought Silver Grain and Flavigny today.

W. O'B. Macdonough plans to ship twenty year-lings to New York for the summer sales. Fine prices were realized in the east last year for youngsters from his Ormondale Farm.

HIGH IDEALS DEMANDED ON THE TURF

Under the caption "The Passing of the Book-maker," the Toronto, Ont., Globe of Monday devoted a considerable portion of its first page to a refreshing and thoughtful treatment of the sport of racing in its relation to the public from the pen of its well-informed and widely-known sporting editor, Francis Nelson. The article teems in sound common sense and logic and presents some of the aspects of racing in a different light than that in which they are frequently set forth in certain portions of the public press. Well worth the perusal of turfmen generally are the following extracts:
"In a way the world has come to demand from public press. Well worth the perusal of turfmen generally are the following extracts:

"In a way the world has come to demand from the sport of the turf a higher ideal and practice than is expected in other fields of human activity. It must have no weakness or deficiency, and customs that are common enough with other things would be ruinous if tolerated in connection with racing. The slightest lack of circumspection in its surroundings or control is considered of the greatest moment, and the closest scrutiny attaches to those with whom the race-goer mingles. He may associate with the self-same persons at every other gathering where people congregate without a second thought or grain of criticism. If racing pays its way and meets its obligations it is lamented over as being 'commercialized.' This curious appreciation of the sport is not unrecognized by those responsible for its welfare, though they may find expectations created that it is impossible to realize. The demand for the standard of perfection includes, of course, the speculation that has been abundant on trials of speed and stamina ever since man competed with man and horse ran against horse. The obection urged with the most persistency, apparently being regarded as the gravest, is that it is possible for one to lose in transactions involving differences of opinion about the merits and capabilities of certain horses.

"An arbitrary and common conception of the turf pictures it as a sort of modern "Text" Fiddles':

one to lose in transactions involving differences of opinion about the merits and capabilities of certain horses.

"An arbitrary and common conception of the turf pictures it as a sort of modern "Tom Tiddler's ground," where men and women are engaged in the pleasing occupation of going about picking up gold and siliver. As this is certainly an agreeable and easy diversion—not really work at all—those who have conjured up the scene lansten to participate in it; and when the reality comes they emerge quite cross and convinced that they have been badly treated. So difficult it is for a man to admit that he deceived himself.

"Nobody grumbles over the fact that the people of Toronto spent this theatrical season $1,250,000 ninety per cent. of which goes to American managers and actors. Everybody is asked to become indignant over the untruth that those who find their entertainment in speculating at Woodbine have to pay an enormous amount for it to American bookmakers. If they did so it would be quite their own affair, the same as the people who spend their money in the theaters. But the truth is that last spring the American bookmakers lost almost every dollar of the $200,000 that the public won, the local layers being able, under the move-about system, to deal on better terms for themselves, being well known to their customers. There is this point, too, about the comparison: That a $5 bill wagered at Woodbine box offices is never seen again. Just what amount of money is actually wagered on a race course it is almost impossible to determine—except by the yellow newspapers—but it is certain that there is no such heavy betting as there was years ago.

"The finest and most valuable of horses have been the subject of systematic such each of the subject

There is no such heavy betting as there was years ago.

"The finest and most valuable of horses have been the subject of systematic speculation ever since the treed of the Anglo-Arab was founded by the importation into England of the Quaker's horse that is known as the Godolphin Arigh. Mr. Darley's Arabian, and the Turkish charger that Captain Byerly rode in King William's wars in Ireland. The lines of these eastern horses, through their prepotent representatives—Matchem. Eclipse and Herod—have spread into all civilized countries, and their blood is that of the most highly prized breeds of Europe. America and Australasia. In India the supremacy of the British thoroughbred is so accepted that his progenitor, the Arab, is allowed seven pounds in races. In spite of this advantage, the native princes, who are in a position to secure the choicest of the desert champions, have long ago abandoned them for racing purposes, and replaced them with English or racing purposes, and replaced them with English or Australian horses.

Not only is the race horse the subject of speculation in all countries, from Egypt to Alberta, but everywhere, except in some parts of the United States, that is legalized and recognized. The reason for this consensus of opinion among legislators is not pertinent to this article, which deals with conditions, not theories. The systems under which speculation is carried on are not uniform in all countries, but are practically covered by bookmaking and mutuel betting. Theoretically, these are identical, in the sense that both afford a means of bringing together the individual bettors for a commission. The exigencies of actual operation, however, frequently compel the bookmaker to abandom the role of middleman, and become a bettor himself, when he had set out simply to collect enough from the backers of all the horses to pay off the backer of the winner and retain a certain percentage for himself. Nowadays—and this is becoming increasingly the case—he is rarely able to 'make a round book.' Because of the expert knowledge or opinion of his customers, there is little or no support for such horses as appear to be outclassed and be is forced into the nosition of expert knowledge or opinion of his customers, there is little or no support for such horses as appear to be outclassed and he is forced into the position of profiting, or losing, according to the success of certain horses in the list. The superstition that bookmaking is a certain road to wealth dies hard, but it is dving, for the race-course bookmaker is engaged in a losing business, no compensating advantages accompanying his expenses, and the ratio of successful public choices on the Canadian circuit standing at over fifty per cent. Even without a practical substitute, it is the opinion of those who have given the matter attention that the bookmaker would disappear from recognized racing, because the time must be reached when it will be no longer possible to enlist further capital. In an unprofitable venture.

time must be reached when it will be no longer possible to enlist further capital in an unprofitable set to enlist further capital in an unprofitable. The bookmaker does not flourish in all countries. In Canada, the United States and England he practically has the field to himself, but elsewhere he is either excluded or has to work in competition with the machine. In all continental European countries and in the South American republies the machine takes his place. New South Wales and Victoria lave bookmaking only, but the totalizator is used in the other Australian states. In New Zealand not long ago one of the licensed jockey clubs refused to allow bookmakers to operate at its meeting. They complained to the government and the club was notified that its license to use the machine would be revoked if any discrimination against the bookmakers was shown. There and in other countries where the machine is established the government takes a percentage of the revenue.

The machine-betting system is brought to its greatest perfection in France, and as many, as 2,000 clerks are employed in its operation on a big day at Auteuil or Longchamps, where the crowd will number mere than 200,000 people. The pari-mutuel was worked on a small scale at Woodbine and Windsor a score of years ago, and at Quebec recently. It was common enough on American tracks a quarter of a century back, but is now used in no part of the Republic except in Kentucky. In that state the auction and the pari-mutuel are the only legal forms of race-course betting, and the State Racing Commission will not grant a license to meetings where any other method is contemplated. The mutuel and the totalizator are merely mechanical clearing houses, collecting a commission for bringing individual bettors together. The commission, which in Kentucky is five per cent., goes to meet the cost of operation and maintenance of the club. The machine is a register of the number of investments on each lorse, the total of which is divided among those who have invested on the winner. The whole operation is nothing more than putting one's choice into a pool, and paying a commission to the operator of the machine or register. This commission represents the club's revenue from the bettors that it has been accustomed to collect through the fees charged to collect through the fees charged to collect through the fees charged to the machine or register. This commission represents the club's revenue from the bettors that it has been accustomed to collect through the fees charged to collect through the fees charged to the distribution that it is a more economical and satisfactory system of speculation that bookmaking. The Australian states, but that does not prevent recognition that it is a more economical and satisfactory system of speculation that bookmaking. The Australian, of Melbourne, Victoria, has this to say on what is a matter of much interest in Canada Just now: We have no doubt that the mechanical way of betting must advantage racing by increasing stakes and lessening betting by owners, and any country which can get the machine without paying for it by passing on any of the controlling influence of the sport from the racing authorities to the government will certainly be the better for the change from bookmaker to totalizator. The totalizator does not show to advantage except when it has plenty of customers.

"The effect of replacing the old style with mechanical betting would be to eliminate many of the features that are found objectionable in connection with racing. When the bookmaker goes there is no way interes

NEW YORK LEGISLATIVE ACTION.

Albany, N. Y., May 4.—There was a three-hours debate over the Agnew-Perkins bills in the Senate yesterday, when two of the three bills were amended. One was interpreted to include in its prohibition betting odds on boat races, football, baseball and amateur sports. The third was the subject of a bitter discussion, when at live o'clock in the afternoon, the presiding officer of the Senate brought the debate to a sharp termination with the announcement that it would be taken up at some later date. This latter measure pr vides that trustees of racing associations and owners of buildings shall be guilty of a misdemeanor if anyone is found guilty of gambling on premises owned or controlled by them.

First of the bills to come up was the one designed to prevent the publication of betting odds. In its original form it made it a misdemeanor for a newspaper or other publication to publish any reference to betting odds on sporting events of any kind. Senator Agnew presented an amendment which, he

to prevent the publication of betting odds. In its original form it made it a misdemeanor for a newspaper or other publication to publish any reference to betting odds on sporting events of any kind. Senator Agnew presented an amendment which, he said, was designed to have the law apply only to the publication of professional odds on horse races, Senator Newcomb them proposed an amendment to another of the bills, reading as follows: "Bookmaking referred to in this section shall mean the laying of odds or publishing of odds to all comers or to the public." This amendment was adopted by a vote of 26 to 19. An amendment proposed by the Jockey Club representatives to strike out the words "yrepare by writing or other record and display lists or memorandum of odds offered to be bet." was defeated by 26 to 21 after an hour's debate today. Following a conference with Governor Hughes, Senator Newcomb succeeded in having the Senate strike out his amendment made yesterday and the measure was passed in the form which prohibits bookmaking "with or without writing."

Today's action was forced by Governor Hughes after it had been tacitly agreed that the measures would go over until next week. The vote on its passage was 31 to 15, with Senators Alt. Stilwell and Sullivan, all opposed to the bill, absent.

By all the speakers of yesterday it was made clear that the law was in no sense designed to interfere with private betting. The bill, which would hold trustees of racing associations equally guilty with persons who violate the law on the premises, came up and it precipitated a bitter debate.

"This is absurd," said Senator Grady. "Suppose I am a director of a racing association and I never visit the track and know little about the company's affairs. Now, if Pete, Jim and Jacle should do a little betting off by the barn and were arrested. I would be guilty also. This prowides that no matter if the racing association has posted up signs saying rambling is prohibited and has hired special police to prevent betting, he is guilty

s bill without the amendment will hold trus "This bill without the amendment will note trus-tees of racing associations responsible for gambling which may be done without their knowledge," ex-claimed Senator Grady. "It will place these trustees on the same plane with a blackleg with his oil-cloth faro layout, who might invite you up to his rooms."

After a heated discussion, the measure passed the Senate by a vote of 36 to S. Adjournment interfered with the passage of the Perkins bill to amend the penal code in relation saming and betting establishments.

This bill fixing responsibility on trustees and directors is the measure that was most feared by the racing interests. It is the one bill that goes into effect at once, and may result in the declaring off of some of the meetings of this season.

KING'S DAUGHTER IN FORM

T. C. M'DOWELL'S GOOD MARE REDUCES LEX-INGTON TRACK RECORD.

Runs Three-Quarters of a Mile in 1:12? in Winning First Start of Season-Hanbridge and Crystal Maid Suffer from Bad Start.

Lexington, Ky., May 4.—T. C. McDowell's King's Daughter, in scoring an easy victory this afternoon in the Lexington Brewery Handicap, which was the feature of the Kentucky Association's fourth race card, established a new track record for three-quarters of a mile. Her time was 1:123, which is one-fifth of a second faster than the previous best time, made by Colloquy September 14, 1907. King's Daughter was making her first start of the year, and there were some who doubted her fitness to cope with the speedy band to which she was opposed. Her backers gave up their fears soon after barrier rise when she speedily overhauled Early Tide and, spriating into a long lead, was never seriously in danger of defeat. Hanbridge and Crystal Maid, which were considered most formidable of the opposition to the McDowell mare, were eliminated as serious factors by reason of a bad send-off, which enabled Early Tide and Milton B. to finish second and third respectively.

Big fields prevailed, but the sport was enjoyable, Cowdin's defeat of Alice George was somewhat unexpected, Marsand outclassed her opponents in the second, and Edward Corrigan's Chenault had an easy time of it in the fourth. Gold Dust managed to get up in a hard drive to beat Aspirin in the fifth. Edwin L. had to be much the best in the closing dash to successfully overcome the interference he was subjected to. The interference was caused by J. Wilson, who steered Tom Bigbee for the inner rail going to the first turn and thereby nearly caused a spill. He was sharply reprimanded and will have a hearing tomorrow before the stewards.

For disobedience at the post jockey E. Martin was suspended for the remainder of the meeting. Jockeys Loftus and Wrispen were each given two days for breaking through the barrier.

M. J. Winn, Charles F. Price and John Hachmeister are expected tomorrow from Louisville.

King's Daughter was struck on the left hind ankle as she crossed in front of Early Tide in the third race today, but Mr. McDowell says he does not anticipate any serious Kentucky Derby Favorite to Have Mile and a Quarter Trial Today-Topland Falls Sick.

Louisville, Ky., May 4.—Waldo, the Derby favorite, cantered five-eighths this morning in company with Dorante in 1.98. He went the first eighth in 13½, the quarter in 26½, three-eighths in 39½, half mile in 52½. The work was given the son of Planudes preparatory to another trial over the Derby route tomorrow. middle of the track. Waldo showed no signs of the lameness with which he was reported to be affilieted.
He had pulled up a triffe sore in a previous trial
due to sand getting between his plate and his foot.
The lameness disappeared with the remoyal of the

C. C. Van Meter, trainer of Topland, a Derby candidate, was called to Lexington this morning on account of the sickness of his colt. The son of Orlando was to have been shipped back here today.
Mr. Van Meter was in the dark as to how serious the illness of the colt is, but he surmises that the

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Jack Keene entertains a better opinion of Boola Boola than he did before his two recent races at Lexington.

Jockey Joe Notter has been engaged to ride Faunt-leroy in the Preakness Stakes, to be run next Sat-urday at Pimlico. F. Ambrose Clark, a well-known gentleman rider, broke his collarbone in schooling a horse over the Meadowbrook jumps yesterday.

"Bub" May thinks well of Feather Duster, a col that carried the Schwartz brothers' colors at Aque duct Monday. He is by Broomstick—Ascot Belle. James E. Gaffney, the New Yorker who paid Charles L. Harrison $15,000 for Alfred Noble last year, wired his congratulations to Mr. Harrison on the victory of Housemaid, Alfred Noble's half-sister, in the Breeders' Futurity at Lexington. Mr. Gaffney will come west to see Waldo run in the Kentucky Derby next week.

Winner—B. g, by Emin Bey—Chula (trained by S. C. Cottrell).

Went to post at 2:09. At post 2 minutes. Start good. Won driving; second and third the same. HANNIBAL BEY closed an early gap into forward contention and, having disposed of GOOD INTENT, withstood the challenge of WOODLANDER gamely. WOODLANDER also made up much ground and finished gamely. DDP ROSE ran a good race and was pocketed at the finish. LUMEN closed, a big gap. GOOD INTENT set the pace to the stretch and quit badly. JILLETT was weakly ridden. The winner was entered for $300; no bid.

OLD-TIME METHODS OF TRAINING.

Quaint Description of Remarkable Courses of Treat ment to Which Horses Were Subjected.

Perhaps the oldest detailed directions extant for training a race horse are found in "The Parfait Mareschal," a rare old book by Sieur de Solleysell, equerry to Louis XIV. of France, who said that he obtained them from "a brave cavalleer, who assured me he had it in England from a person whose only imployment was to prepare and dyet running horses." Sir William Hope, who translated Solleysell's work into English in 1696, expressed the opinion that this method of training was then very ancient, saying: "It different wastly from the manner of preparing race horses used now a dayes."

That the British race horse was then, as now, incomparable for swiftness, though neither the "royal mares" nor stallions that are the generally accredited fountain heads of the present-day breed of runners had yet been imported into England, appears from the advice given as to the choice of a horse for running.

"In England," says the author, "they have horses."

ners had yet been imported into England, appears from the advice given as to the choice of a horse for running."

"In England," says the author, "they have horses which are not says the author, "they have horses which are not says the says the says which are naturally well winded and extremely swift, are put into such a condition by this manner of preparation that they perform courses which are incredible, and that not at a slow or round gallon, as our horses, but at full speed, so that people who have not courses out at full speed, so that people who have not could endure and hold out with the violence of such courses for five or six miles, and yet many horses could endure and hold out with the violence of such courses for five or six miles, and yet many horses in that kingdom are known to furnish carriers of that length."

In the time of the old English jockey whose training methods have been handed down by Solleysell hay and eats, which now constitute the diet of the trainer of that day, like Captain Jinks of the Horse trainer of that day, like Captain Jinks of the Horse trainer of that day, like Captain Jinks of the Horse trainer of that day, like Captain Jinks of the Horse trainer of that day, like Captain Jinks of the Horse distance of the day and says which may be seen a sea of the says of the same and that in place of his oats or provender. Instead of hay let him have wheat sheaves unthreshed and with the oats upon them."

It is worthy of note that many trainers of runnershed and with the oats upon them."

It is worthy of note that many trainers of runnershed and with the oats upon them."

After thus "dyeting" the racer four days, while he was kept in a darkened stall, it was in order, on the morning of the fifth day, to give him a ball This was made by mixing one pound of freeh butter on the morning and the trainer was directed to "air him abroad just after sun rising for the space of an hour, and as much at night before sunset, sometimes racking or stepping and sometimes galloping him, but, if he cont lindeed one of the best which hath been as yet published."

Two months was the time allowed by him for preparing a horse for a match. He says that some horse keepers demand six months, but these he charges with the not yet obsolete practice known as "training owners." and embraces the opportunity to read them a lecture on the mistake "by which they rob their masters of four months' pleasure, engadge him in an expensive charge, which will make the sport loathsome, and only give them a few false got crowns, which vanish so soon as gained.

"As horseticks eite Scripture" he says "so these to read them a lecture on the mistake "by which they rob their masters of four months' pleasure, engadge him in an expensive charge, which will make the sport loathsome, and only give them a few false got crowns, which vanish so soon as gained.

"As hereticks cite Scripture," he says, "so these people find reasons to defend their want of skill and experience as the danger of too violent exercise, the offence of grease too suddenly melted, the moving of humors too hastily, which leads to mortal sickness, and the moderating and helping of all these by a slow proceeding, or bringing the horse into order by degrees and time, or, as I may rather say, by an ignorant delay and sofferance. It is like the curing of a gangaren in an old man, Better to die than bed dismembered, better lose the prize or bets than bear the charges, for I appail to any noble judgment whose burse hath experienced such actions, if six months' preparation with the dependants to it doth not eat up and devour the better half of a twenty-five or thirty pound wager, therefore, for any ordinary match or bet I allow as I said but two months to prepare a horse for it, it being most certain that a horse who cannot make a good heat in that time will very rarely make an extraordinary one, though you should dyet him triple or quadruple that space." Sir William Hope separated his course of training different treatment and different feed for each. For the first fortnight, assuming the horse to be fat and soft, the trainer was directed to give him each day four quarts of oats together with three "small bundles" of hay, feeding him one quart of oats at a meal, or a little more if hone was a hearty feeder. After having been groomed before "walk him softly, so that he may cool as much one way as he warrmeth another, and when you have thus exercised him a pretty space and feeling the san begin to rise, or else newly risen, rack him down to some fresh river or clear pond and there let him drink at his pleasure. After he hath drunk bring thing early, and exercise added to the bill of fare, except on the days preceding work-out days, which came twice a week.

On the morning that the trainer, or keeper, as he was then called, intended to give him a heat, the racer's breakfast was a quart of oats rubbed between the hands with some beer or ale, then a new-laid egg or two, washed down with a little beer or ale. "In giving of heats," says the author, "you are to consider first, that two in the week are sufficient for any horse of whatsoever condition or state of body. Secondly, that one of them should alwayes be given upon that day of the week in which your horse is to run his match, and that also still to be the sharpest for increasing of his heels or swiftness, the other being only a slow galloping over the course, more to increase wind and cause sweat, than to improve his speed, and therefore I would have you to order them thus. Suppose your match day is to be upon a Monday, then your heating dayes must be Mondays and Fridays, and the sharper heat to be upon the Monday, because it is the day of his match. Thirdly, you shall give no heat in rain or foul weather, and in case of sudden shours you shall have for your horse a hood to keep out the rain. For nothing is more dangerous than cold wet falling, into the ears and upon the nap of the neck. Fourthly, observe to give your heats as early in the morning as you can; that is, by the spring of the day. Fifthly and lastly, rack your horse gently up to the starting post if there be any, making him smell at it, that so he may both be 'acquainted with it and also know the beginning and ending of the course, at near a three-quarters speed, and if it he upon the day of the week which his match is made in the morning and ending of the course thorow, and by no means do anything in extremity, or above his wind, but when you find him take delight in his labour and so the better endure it. "When you have findshed your heat and gently gallop him up and down to rate his wind and clear it.

"When you have finished your heat and gently gallop him up and down to rate his wind and clear his spirits you shall then (the groom being ready) ride into some warm place or corner, and with your glassing or scraping knife, made either of some broken sword blade or a thin piece of old hard oaken wood, scrape off the sweat from your horse in every part (buttocks excepted), until you can make no more arise, still moving him now and then a little to keep his limbs in motion, then with dry cloaths rub him all over, and last of all walk him about the fields to cool him, and when you find him begin to dry apace, then rack him homewards, sometimes stepping and sometimes galloping, but by no means bring him to the stable till you find him thoroughly dry. Then set him up and ty him to the rack, and having prepared it against your coming, give him this scouring:

"Take an English pint or Scotch mutchkin of the syrup of roses, or, for want of it, the like quantity of strong honyed water, and dissolve into it of csassia, agarick and myrrhe, of each one ounce, shaking them well together in a glass, then being mul'd and made warm upon a gentle fire, and the horse newly come from his heat, give it to him lukewarm."

This dose was repeated after every "heating"

during the second fortnight, in which "there doubt but his body will be drawn inwardly clean."

This dose was repeated after every "heating" during the second fortnight, in which "there is no doubt but his body will be drawn inwardly pretty clean."

For the third fortnight the racer's bread was made of equal proportions of beans and wheat, his heats were not quite so sharp as before and the securings gave place to cordial balls made up after "the true receipt of Mr. Markhams, so me the securing save place to cordial balls made up after "the true receipt of Mr. Markhams, so me?
